Specialized Prenatal Care for a Healthy, Successful Pregnancy

Expecting a child can be one of the most exciting, exhilarating times in a woman's life. As women and mothers ourselves, we understand this... and the concern, uncertainty and anxiety that are normal parts of being pregnant. At the same time, as residency-trained and board-certified obstetricians, the Women's Wellness Center's doctors have the knowledge and expertise you depend on for top-quality prenatal care ... right here in Huron.

Advanced, compassionate obstetric care from experienced doctors and moms

At the Women's Wellness Center, we lead with our hearts, giving you the compassion, understanding, guidance and support you need. At the same time, you can rest assured that you'll be getting comprehensive, up-to-date care that includes:

- Pregnancy testing
- Obstetric orientation & prenatal classes
- In-office obstetric & 3D/4D ultrasound
- Fetal non-stress testing
- Cell-free DNA (cfDNA) testing
- Pregnancy & childbirth, including high-risk pregnancy & delivery
- Vaginal births and C-section
- Pre- & post-birth support

CenteringPregnancy: A special kind of support during your prenatal care

We've seen firsthand that there are benefits to going through pregnancy with other moms-to-be. In fact, research shows that when pregnancy becomes a group experience, healthier babies can result.

This is why we're the first provider in the east-central region of South Dakota to offer the CenteringPregnancy program. Designed by a nurse midwife, this program brings together expectant moms (due around the same time) to share, support and learn from one another. The program includes educational materials, essential instruction, in-depth information and supportive gatherings in addition to your normal one-on-one time

At the Women's Wellness Center, our doctors are specialists who have been delivering babies for years. They know all of the aspects of childbirth and have helped women from all walks of life through the labor and delivery process many times. What's more, because our doctors and staff are all women, we know that labor and delivery can be a little intimidating. We take the time to make sure that your childbirth experience is as comfortable and rewarding as possible.

We're here to help you prepare

Giving you the personal care you need to help you get comfortable starts with a series of prenatal care visits at our office. During the first six months of pregnancy, you'll visit us about once a month. After that, your visits will ~~come~~ ^{be} more often. Right before the baby is born, we'll see you every week.

Is it really time?

It's not always easy to know when the baby is coming. It makes sense to go to the hospital when any of the following things happen:

- Contractions become more frequent, last longer and are more intense
- Your water breaks or membranes rupture
- You need to wear a pad because of vaginal bleeding
- Pain increases or changes, especially when you have a lot of abdominal pain

Some of these symptoms can also happen in cases of early, or pre-term, labor. Other symptoms of early labor include:

- Leaking fluid or bleeding from your vagina
- The sensation that the baby is pushing down
- A backache that is different from the usual backache of pregnancy
- Cramps that feel like menstrual cramps

What to expect when you arrive

If you go to the hospital for any of the above reasons, please go directly to the Emergency Department. ~~How to get there~~ ^{delete} ~~When~~ ^{capitalize}

note this line up to this section

...labor and delivery instead. Either way, when you get settled, a nurse will place a fetal monitor on your baby to check baby's heart rate and measure your contractions. You may also be tested to see if amniotic fluid is present. There will be a cervical check too, to see if you've dilated.

When your contractions seem strong, amniotic fluid is present and your cervix is changing, you'll be admitted to deliver the baby. If those indicators aren't happening, you may be sent home, but you'll probably be back soon.

What happens after admission

If you're admitted, you'll be assigned a labor and delivery nurse who will stay with you as you go through labor. You may get medication to manage pain (that's a choice you can make with your doctor). As your contractions increase, nurses will put monitors on you periodically to check on baby's heart rate and your contractions, or a nurse may keep the monitors on your belly while you're in bed.

You may also see your doctor at this point. Remember, you could be in labor for hours, so the nurse will be with you more than the doctor will.

After a while, the contractions will become intense and increasingly close together. Then you'll have an urge to push. You shouldn't push yet — but it's almost time, and you should make sure the nurse or your doctor is close by. Always follow the instructions from your doctor or nurse. They will tell you when to push and how much. They'll also help guide your baby out into the world. Then — you're a mom!

If you have questions about any aspect of pregnancy, or if you'd like other information on prenatal care or labor and delivery, just give us a call at 000-000-0000. You can also call that number to schedule an appointment with one of our doctors. Or request an appointment using our convenient online form.

At the Women's Wellness Center, we recommend that you have a well-woman visit every year. And, because our doctors are board-certified OB/GYN specialists who take a whole-woman approach, we make sure your annual exam is focused on you ~~and your reproductive health~~ — and on your body as a whole. Experience tells us that this type of preventive care can keep a woman healthy through every stage of her life.

Prevention starts when a woman is young..

We often start well-woman care when our patients are teenagers as young as 13 or 14. At this age, your visit may start with a talk with your doctor about your health, your medical history, your family's medical history and what's going on in your life. During your visit, you'll also be given a regular physical exam.

This might be a good time to talk about your period and answer any questions you may have about your physical health. The doctor may recommend some tests or even give you a vaccine injection. This can also be a good time to start discussing birth control and other sex-related issues.

...and continues through every stage of life

For older patients, well-woman care can include pelvic exams, Pap tests, breast exams and mammograms in addition to a basic medical history and physical exam. The conversations you have with your doctor during these visits might focus on your reproductive health and your emotional health, as well as on physical issues such as:

- Menstruation
- Medical conditions related to your vagina or vulva
- Other medical conditions
- Sexual activity
- Birth control
- Pregnancy
- Sexually transmitted diseases
- Menopause
- Aging processes

During your well-woman exam, it's important to ask all the questions that you can think of and get as much information as you need. The goal is make sure you are as healthy as you can be, today and tomorrow.

We strive for an in-depth understanding of you and your health

At the Women's Wellness Center, we take time to understand you and to get a clear, full picture of your health. When you leave our office, we want you to know everything you need to know. And, as always, we're here to answer any questions you may have.

Minimally Invasive Treatment

Minimally Invasive Techniques Reduce the Burden and Impact of Treatment

As residency-trained and board-certified OB/GYN specialists, our doctors provide care that's state-of-the-art, yet keeps your personal comfort and long-term health clearly in focus. Our goal, whatever your health status, is to treat you as effectively, safely and quickly as we can, with the minimum impact.

So, while we do our best to avoid surgery whenever possible, there are times when a woman may need advanced gynecologic care to treat her condition. When a surgical or diagnostic procedure is needed, our doctors always recommend leading-edge, less-invasive methods. ~~Dr. Sara Castellanos and Dr. Elise Brock~~ are both OB/GYN surgical specialists who are highly trained in today's most advanced laparoscopic and hysteroscopic technologies.

The benefits of less-invasive treatments

In specific terms, these advanced techniques are designed to reduce your pain and recovery time. We make very small incisions and minimize scarring. We are passionate about providing the most effective alternatives to traditional open surgery so you can get back to your normal life as soon as possible.

Whether patients have endometriosis, fibroids, ovarian cysts, bladder leakage, pelvic organ prolapse or pelvic pain, our practice is always seeking quicker, easier treatments. If major intervention is needed to perform hysterectomies, endometriosis surgery, gynecologic or pelvic reconstruction or fibroid removal, we ~~are~~ ~~constantly pushing for shorter hospital stays and a more comfortable overall experience.~~ Our doctors are continually learning and refining the latest, most minimally invasive approaches.

Some of these less invasive techniques can be performed within hours and patients can return home the same day.

Our board-certified gynecologists offer their utmost to care for you and your healthcare needs. We are dedicated to providing you the most advanced healthcare solutions so you can have and maintain optimal health through all stages of your life.

Increasing fertility through balancing osteopathic techniques

Our services extend beyond standard fertility practices. Dr. Castellanos provides in-house osteopathic manipulative treatment (OMT) to help increase joint mobility, improve spinal and soft-tissue health, improve circulation and reduce stress. Her goal is to help your body perform the most natural and normal processes of conception and pregnancy through hands-on osteopathic treatment. OMT is a safe, effective, nonsurgical option that can often complement fertility treatments.

Osteopathy

Osteopathic Medicine: Specialized, Patient-Focused Care

At the Women's Wellness Center, we're dedicated to providing you the highest quality, most comprehensive and compassionate treatment we can. Our capabilities include Dr. Castellanos' background and training in osteopathy, a medical discipline that is focused on treating the whole patient and has long been recognized as safe and effective.

Dr. Castellanos' degree in osteopathic medicine underscores her view that every person's health — and every illness — is unique. As a doctor of osteopathic medicine, Dr. Castellanos is able to provide a type of patient-focused care that can complement, and sometimes replace, the use of pharmaceutical medications or invasive surgery.

OMT — a different kind of therapy

As part of her osteopathic training, Dr. Castellanos has achieved a high level of expertise in osteopathic manipulative treatment (OMT). This therapy provides nonsurgical treatment that promotes self-healing and can help people of all ages and backgrounds, from the youngest to the oldest.

For example, patients who experience muscle pain or are limited in their mobility may need this "whole ~~body~~ patient" approach to their care. Dr. Castellanos can treat a wide range of conditions using OMT, including:

- Asthma
- Ear and sinus disorders
- Carpal tunnel syndrome
- Migraines
- Irritable bowel syndrome
- Menstrual pain

OMT can ~~also~~ often complement fertility treatments. The therapy helps improve circulation and reduce stress, and it helps your body perform the most natural and normal processes of conception and pregnancy.

What's more, recent research has found that OMT can ~~also~~ often benefit patients with low back pain and balance issues. OMT has also been used to improve outcomes for elderly, hospitalized patients being treated for pneumonia.

In addition, Dr. Castellanos uses OMT as an effective pain-

In addition, Dr. Castellanos uses OMT as an effective pain-reducing therapy that can allow patients to avoid using prescription pain medications such as opioids.

How does OMT work?

Osteopathic doctors have an in-depth understanding of the body's interconnected system of nerves, muscles and bones. They work with the body's own structure to help it heal itself.

During OMT, Dr. Castellanos gently applies a precise amount of manual pressure in a specific direction. The pressure is used to relax the tissues or to stimulate them to:

- Treat structural and tissue problems in the vertebrae, muscles, myofascial structures, etc.
- Relieve joint restriction and misalignment
- Restore muscle and tissue balance
- Promote the movement of bodily fluids

By combining her advanced knowledge of state-of-the-art medical care with the "whole body" approach of OMT, Dr. Castellanos is able to deliver a level of women's health care and wellness treatment that's unmatched in Huron, SD.

FAQ

Questions and Answers for Patients at The Women's Wellness Center

When you visit the Women's Wellness Center, you'll interact with our caring specialists and staff. In the meantime, you may have questions, some of which may be among our most commonly asked, which are answered below.

You can also reach us directly by calling: 605-554-1020.

How old should I be when I first start seeing a gynecologist?

In our practice, we often see patients as young as 13 or 14, and stay with them as they go through life's stages.

When should I schedule my first prenatal visit?

If you've had a positive home pregnancy test, give us a call. We will schedule an appointment for you approximately eight weeks from your last menstrual period.

What medications can I safely take when I am pregnant?

You can take prenatal vitamins, most of which are now available without a prescription. For any other medications, vitamins, herbal remedies or supplements, check with us before taking them.

What do I need to know about menopause?

Menopause marks the end of a woman's childbearing years. It's a natural life change that usually occurs around age 50, but can happen earlier or later. If you haven't had a menstrual period for a full year or if you'd like to get more information about menopause, talk with us.

What insurance plans does the Women's Wellness Center accept?

We accept most insurance plans. For a list of approved plans, visit our Insurance page.

How do I log in to my Women's Wellness Center account?

You can visit your personal patient portal by logging in here.
